

LEARNING FOR A CHANGE

Join Our Roots of Change Study Circle

Hardly a day goes by without news of accelerating ecological decline, increasing depression and anxiety, or the widening of inequality in tandem with the concentration of corporate power. The present ecological, social and economic crises are unprecedented. And yet, an equally unprecedented movement is surging from the grassroots. Across the world people are joining hands in the spirit of resistance & renewal. Millions are engaged in the urgent, though joyful and enriching process of renewing just & sustainable communities.

The process of building a better world starts by rethinking basic assumptions and exploring root causes. We're starting a Roots of Change study circle in this area. Please join us!

THE PROGRAM

Roots of Change is a ground-breaking study circle program. The curriculum includes voices of the world's leading political, economic and ecological thinkers. The readings explore the origins and workings of today's globalized economy and promote discussion of the impacts of corporate globalisation on communities around the world. The emphasis is on education for action: helping participants see the big picture, unearth root causes and identify strategic positive actions.

JOIN US!

In collaboration with the International Society for Ecology and Culture (ISEC), we are setting up a study circle in this area. Study circles usually meet once or twice a month to discuss readings and forge strategies for effective local action. The program promises to be enjoyable, educational and life-affirming.
